DEDICATED to
Pastor Walter Dierking

Since the year 1957, Pastor Walter Dierking has served our church and community with his help and guidance and also in establishing the new Central School.

We are sorry to see him leave, but we know that he feels there is a great need for the spreading of God's Word at Immanuel Lutheran Church at Boonville. We hope that he is as successful there as he was here during the last five years.

So it is with a sense of deep gratitude that the graduating class of '62 dedicates this book to Pastor Walter Dierking.

CLASS REPRESENTATIVES

DWAYNE WIENBERG - "To Thee my heart I offer." This is the motto we have selected.

In it we promise that we will always give our hearts in gratitude to God for sending the Savior to save us from sin.

We are very happy that the dream of the Central School has become a reality and we are humbly proud to be the first class to be graduated by this Lutheran School Association. We hope and pray that there will be many more boys and girls who will have the same wonderful opportunity as we have had.

I am sure I am speaking for the whole class when I say that we appreciate the guidance and patience that our teachers and pastors have shown us these past eight years.

May this truly be a commencement for us that will rebound to the glory of our Savior and to the welfare of all of us.

ANNIE HEIMSOTH - This is an important day for us. It marks the completion of our elementary education. We are thankful that we have had the privilege of studying under fine Christian teachers who have taught us "the one thing needful" as well as giving us secular knowledge.

May we ever live up to our motto "To Thee my heart I offer" allowing Jesus to full possession of our hearts so that our lives may be such that we will always be ready to speak up for Jesus, and that He may never be ashamed of us.

Now a final farewell to classmates and friends. Though we go our separate ways, may the Lord bless us all.

Mr. Helge, in behalf of the class and all assembled here,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your encouraging message to us, and I would also like to thank our pastors, teachers, and parents who have helped us in the past and I am sure will also continue to help us in the future.

TO THE CLASS OF 1962:- The words spoken by your representatives are indeed pleasant ones, and are appreciated by the faculty and many others. At the close of a school term this is not unusual. Yet you can say that this is unusual, because you can claim to be different. You are the first class to be graduated from the Lutheran School Association of Cole Camp.

Many of us do not realize that this school plan was talked about fifteen years ago. It is perhaps more surprising that this was talked about by some individuals over twenty-five years ago. All of us have reason to thank our Lord and Savior for the results that have come by His hand. Our continued prayers are needed.

You, as graduates, will become more aware of the years and especially the last year you have spent in the Christian Day school. Although the organization was affected when the term started, you well remember the the arrangement for classrooms was not so easy. The continuous disturbances during building and all other make-shift arrangements required the cooperation of all.

We, the faculty, wish to thank you for your cooperation and wish you the Lord's richest blessings in your future schooling. We want to express our appreciation to all pupils and parents for their help.

CLASS HISTORY

In August of 1954, two boys and five girls started their eight year tour of the West under the leadership of Mrs. Hesse. Those who started the tour were, Dennis Denker, Mona Eckhoff, Sandra Hagenah, Linda Sue Root, Mary Schnackenberg, Annie Heimsoth, and Dwayne Wienberg.

We began our tour by visiting several different places. After four years we visited Salt Lake City, Utah, where we found Arletta and Leslie Heisterberg. The next year we went to Death Valley, Calif., and found Cheryl Kreisler wandering around trying to find water. The sixth year we went to Las Vegas, Nevada, where we found Judy Luetjen and Kathleen Luetjen trying to find a nickle for the slot machine. We stopped by the race tracks and found Arthur Maynard riding the winning pony.

The last year we went through Las Vegas again and found Linda O'Donnell dealing cards like Maverick, but losing every hand so she decided to join up with us.

This completes our tour. We didn't lose anyone, but gained seven.

CLASS PROPHECY

Here it is a nice, sunny day. We, Arletta Heisterberg and Linda Root, are on our way to the airport to visit two of our old classmates, Leslie Heisterberg and Dwayne Wienberg, who are cattle ranchers. They are having the problem of cattle rustlers. Fortunately, Dennis Denker was engaged to investigate the case and the rustlers were prosecuted and sentenced. This done, the much sought out Dennis is off on another investigation and we didn't get much chance to talk, but he did tell us that Mary Schnackenberg and Linda O'Donnell were very prominent lawyers. They established their firm by winning a case over two famed and intelligent lawyers, Lawrence Preston and Perry Mason.

We then looked up Judy Luetjen. She informed us that she had been hired by a Broadway company to be the hair stylist to their play. We three went to see a ballgame at the Yankee Stadium, as our classmate, Arthur Maynard, is playing second base. Of course the Yankees beat the Tigers whom they were playing against. We then went to the Empire State Building where to our surprise Annie Heimsoth is a typist and Sandra Hagenah a private secretary.

On we go to Hollywood to meet Kathleen Luetjen who is a private tutor to the children of Liz Taylor and Eddie Fisher, who have become Lutherans. In this same home we find Cheryl Kreisler who is a private nurse to Liz Taylor, who is continually having nervous breakdowns.

We return to Washington D. C. to find Mona Eckhoff a nurse to President Kennedy who is having back trouble again. I, Arletta Heisterberg, am the designer of Mrs. Kennedy's entire wardrobe. That last hat I designed for her was a doozy! I, Linda Root, shall now return to the brats I'm teaching in Washington D. C. I now understand what Mrs. Hesse had to put up with as I'm a first grade teacher.

EIGHTH GRADE CONDUCTS SCHOOL

Here is our favorite day, and the first day of school, April Fool's Day. Everything is topsy turvy as usual. Our principal, Master Maynard, opens the door in the cellar in the top of the attic.

The children enter through mouse holes. Teachers Root and Luetjen enter their rooms. Mr. Wienberg, chief rock-picker upper dumps little wagon and skins his big nose. Nurse Kreisler comes to the rescue with a seven foot long and two inch thick bandage. Miss Luetjen performs the experiment with nitro glycerin and off comes the roof turning a helicopter upside down. Miss Root's snake in the jar is set free and up in the air goes Miss Root. On the way to the principal's office Miss Eckhoff meets Miss Root but Miss Root has no time to explain. Miss Heimsoth on top of the ladder with more than a dozen of books is upset by Miss Root whizzing by. The principal is found in his office reading Mad magazine upside down. In a moment all of the faculty converges in front of the principal's office. Miss Heisterberg, who can't stand dust, had to sneeze in this whirlwind and knocked the building off its foundation. Miss Hagenah, chief trash burner, got such a shock and jumped over the incinerator.

Mr. Heisterberg, chief cook and bottle washer, had just taken a pie out of the oven which landed in his face because of the shock. Mr. Denker, assistant to Mr. Heisterberg, had just put a stack of dishes on the shelf when another crash occurred. He noticed that the termites had eaten the shelf away. Telephone answerer, Miss O'Donnell, called pest controller, Miss Judy Luetjen who arrives in a hurry and sprays building, faculty, and students. Miss Schnackenberg, music director, had the class on heads singing out of upside down books which brought everything from the end to the beginning with no hope for the future.

GRADES ONE AND TWO

Vickey Holtzen brought three minnows at the beginning of the school term, one lived until March to our surprise. Mike Heimsoth brought a gold fish. We have it now in our fish bowl, which we received from Mrs. Dierking. Kevin Schnell brought us the fixtures for the bowl, the fishermen and castle.

Many children have brought rocks of many kinds, shells, leaves, plants, flowers etc. even a Japanese shell by Frank Tobaben.

In second grade science we planted a tree box. We have orange, lemon, grapefruit, and peach growing. The apple tree didn't do so well. Came up and wilted away.

In art we have done the regular seasonal classroom decorations.

GRADES THREE AND FOUR

The third and fourth grades have had an exciting year, one

Also this classroom had a Cloth Fair in social studies, and have had many interesting bulletin board displays. One display, which showed their own personal love for Jesus, was "Our Hearts for Jesus". This is very important in our Christian training. Each child's picture was pasted on a heart. These hearts were placed around the Heart of Jesus.

Pupils of our room started their school term in the church basement. On March 26, we met in the new classroom for the first time. What a pleasant change! We had many interesting projects during the past year. We enjoyed especially the study of the universe. Also our course in physiology taught us much about the wonderful creatures of God that we are. All of the pupils had an opportunity to lead brief devotions after the noon recess.

We improved our reading by making good use of the bookmobile books and making reports.

 Seventh grade pupil: "1/16"

Sixth grade pupil: "It is something you 'embomb' (embalm) people with." (A stimulant was originally a Roman whip.)

Mr. Schnell: "Where do sedimentary rocks come from?"
Eighth grade pupil: "Sedimentary rocks come from sediments which come from bones and snells (shells) from the sea."

Pastor Boehne forgetting to ask "Why?" after a question has been answered correctly.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

The dedication of the addition to the newly organized Lutheran School Association was held in the Cole Camp R-1 High School Gymnasium on March 25th. The new Central School contains three participating congregations which are; Holy Cross, St. John's, and Trinity. The new Central School was organized on August 1st.

In our campaign for the March of Dimes, our school was able to raise $47.55. We hope this sum can help some man, woman, or child through their severe illness to better health.

No special Mission offerings or other church offerings are being sponsored, since it has been the policy of the school to promote Sunday School offerings.

A weekly Stamp Day through out this school term showed a total sales of $786.75. A number of pupils were awarded certificates for purchasing bonds.

Our school float entitled, "Which Shall It Be?" took second place in the school parade at the Cole Camp Fair. The float was made of green and white net. It emphasized that the family should worship together. Children should not be sent to Sunday School and Church, but should be taken there. Riding on the float were; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hayward, Mr. and Mrs. John Fadler, Wanda Miesner, and Elaine Steffens.

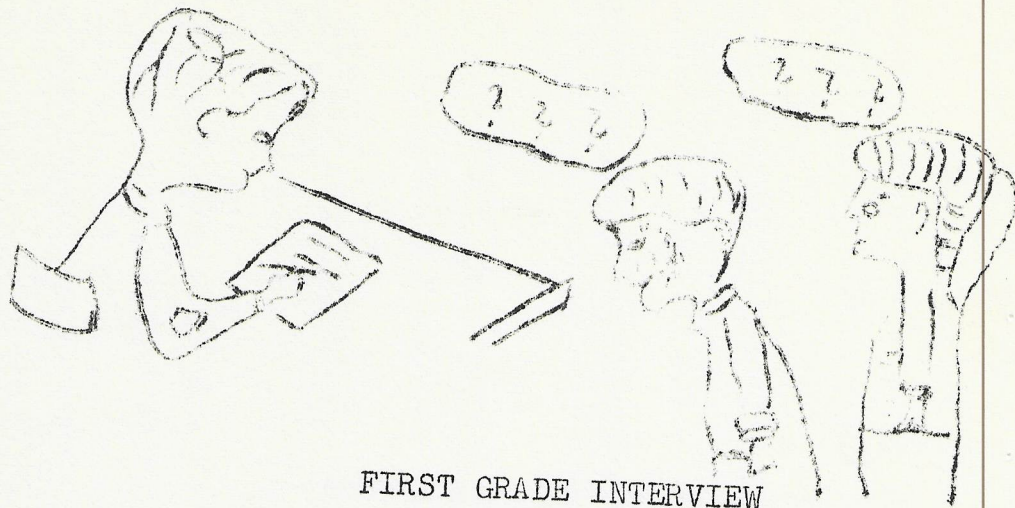

The school playground will be black-topped this summer. The ground has already been graded and will receive a complete job with asphalt topping. This project will cost over $5,000 and is being paid for by the Trinity Church organizations. This will serve as a good parking area for Trinity.

The bookmobile is again serving us wonderfully. Each month we take out from 250-300 books. The people on the bookmobile serving us have been very cooperative and we appreciate their services.

We had our tuberculosis tests taken by Dr. Watson and Dr. Gonzalez on December 11th. There was 100% cooperation which was appreciated.

In October, our eyes and ears were tested. Mrs. Erwin Eckhoff and Mrs. Wayne Tinney conducted this testing program for us. This was a project sponsored by the Mothers Club. This required several testings for some of the pupils and many parents were surprised to learn that their pupils had defective hearing and sight. All of us, teachers, parents, and pupils appreciate the work done by these people.

The Junior Broadcaster was again supplied for the school through the efforts of Erwin Eckhoff. This little paper is instructive and interesting. We hope to receive it in the future.

The faculty is very happy that the graduates have dedicated this book to Pastor Dierking. Many things could be said about his interest in the precious souls of the lambs. Perhaps it could all be summed up in one sentence by saying, "He has a burning zeal for the soul's welfare of every child." This the graduates recognized, and dedicated this book to him not as a duty but because they felt they want to do this.

Pastor Boehne has served with Pastor Dierking and has enjoyed his part in the carrying out of his responsibilities. (His desire was evidenced by his early arrival whenever his turn came to serve. He often arrived next to the cook.)

Mrs. Leonard Heisterberg has served well as a substitute teacher whenever the principal had to attend his monthly meeting in St. Louis. She is ready to any other time when called on. Our thanks to you, Mrs Heisterberg.

Let us not forget that Pastor Albert Meier served as pastor at Holy Cross, and also had the opportunity to teach several times.

Mrs. Muller has again served as our cook. We thank her for her efforts.

The Board of Directors has already decided to enlarge the kitchen. At this time no details are ready.

Our school picnic was held on May 24th. Several hours were spent in games and contests in the Eichhoff field north of town. Every child brought a sack lunch and the children enjoyed eating it under some shady trees. We thank Mr. Ed. Eickhoff for this privilege. Some of the pupils came back with a new skin.

On April 8th this year's confirmation class was examined in a special evening's service. Both pastors were in charge of the questioning. Fifteen pupils were in the class, three from St. John's and twelve from Trinity. These pupils were confirmed on the following Sunday in their own churches.

This year it was difficult to carry on any kind of sports program. We did not have any facilities to practice decently, and the annual Field Day in the circuit has been dropped. On May the 16th, however, we did try our skill against Cole Camp R-1 school in a game of softball. This proved to be a very interesting game. We lost by a score of 7 to 6 in extra innings. This proved to be a very exciting game. After our playgrounds will be improved we should have better opportunities for organizing our teams.
