

 This Book Belongs To Mrs. Umphrey **

We, the eighth grade class of 1995-1996, are proud to dedicate this yearbook to Mrs. Annette Brinkman. She has taught fifth and sixth grade for the last four years and we are proud to say that we were her first fifth grade class in the years 1992-1993. We want to thank her for doing such a great job in teaching us and always being there for us when we needed help, advice, or just someone to listen and be a friend. We will always remember what she has done for us in the past and we know that she will always be there for us in the future.

THE EIGHTH GRADE CLASS OF '95-'96

CLASS PROPHECY

We, Kim Woolery and Ann Cain, are owners of the famous chains of hospitals named, "You Broke it; We'll try to Fix it." In the year 2010 we were in our Paris hospital when a carpenter came in who had superglued his hands to his head. We rushed to help him and to our surprise it was our former eighth grade classmate Curt Dieckman. He had been making a runway for the supermodel, Winter Hagen.

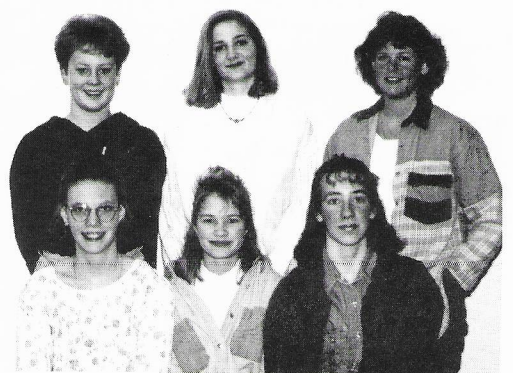

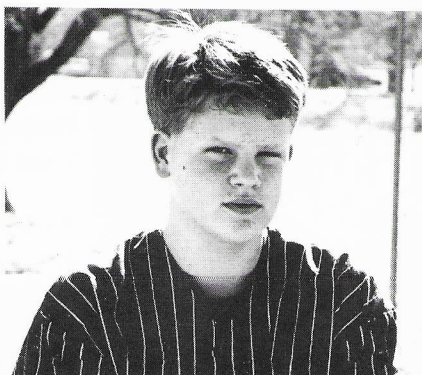

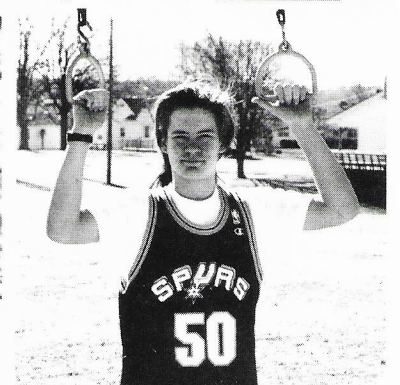

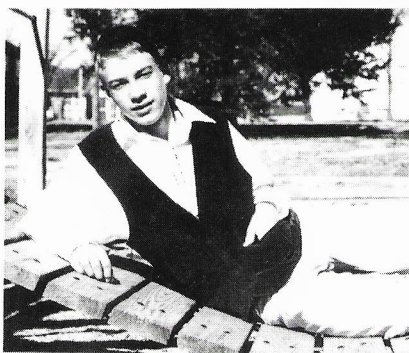

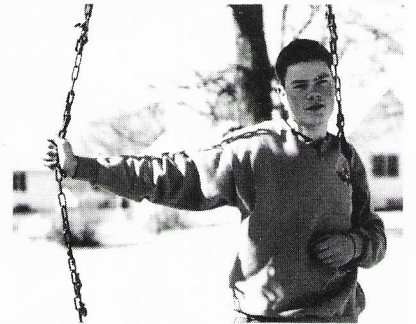

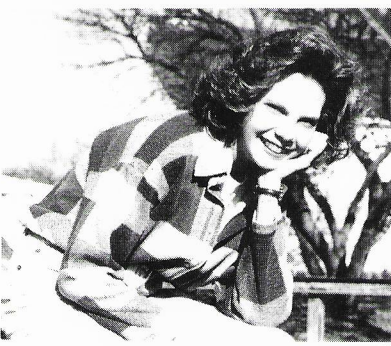

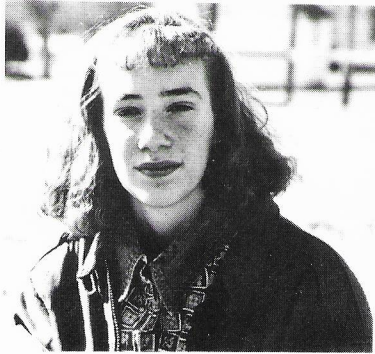

So we went to find Winter, and when we did she told us she was modeling Anne Klein's newest fashions. Then she took us on a tour of Paris in her stretch limo. We went into a bookstore to browse when we saw Bridget Meyer's face on the cover of her number one book in the world, How to Milk a Cow. When we went to pay for the book we saw Ashley Hout. After talking with her for a while, she told us she owned a chain of bookstores called, "Buy the Book or Else". She also told us that Bridget had moved to Florida .

We decided to go for a visit. The flight from Paris to Florida was terrible, so we weren't surprised when we confronted the pilot and found out that it was our old friend Jonathan Petersen. We invited him to come with us to find Bridget.

When we met up with Bridget she told us that Kerri Bauer was nearby , but she was twenty miles underwater. That night we heard on television that she had found the lost city of Atlantis and would be coming up to shore the next day. In the morning we went to buy a newspaper so we would know where to find Kerri. When we got to the nearest newspaper stand we recognised the clerk , Josh Heimsoth. We talked him into selling us a newspaper for half price and asked him to join us in our search for Kerri. We finally located the place where she was and we weaved our way through the crowds to be reunited with her.

Since the next day was Sunday we all decided to take it easy and get up early in the morning and go to church. As we all filed into a pew, Winter noticed the pastor's name. It was Jonathan Bergman's name. We all looked up and laughed at the sight of him in robes preaching to us! After church Bridget volunteered to go and get Bergman.

While the rest of us were standing outside the church, an old man on rollerblades nearly ran us all over. It was our old eighth grade teacher, Mr. Bauer! After Bridget returned with Bergman we all went out to McDonalds for lunch and partied all night long.
