- Adam : Ummm... I'd love to see her play paintball so I could teach her a thing or two.
- Chad : Football, it would be fun watching her get tackled.
- Ashley : I'd like to see her play soccer because she will probably try to use her hands.
- Justin : Tennis, I would like to see the ball being hit at her at high speeds.
- Andrew K : Football, because she would get tackled alot, and then she would cry.
- Andrew L : I would like to watch her play football because I'd like to see her get tackled and see how well she does.
- Susan : Boxing, because if she did that, and got all her anger out, then maybe she wouldn't be mad at the 7th and 8th graders all the time.
- Andrea : Swimming, because it would be funny to see her swim in a swimming cap.
- Zach : Rugby, because she'd get tackled and stuff.
- Christina : Swimming, it would be funny to see her in a swimming suit and to watch her go down the water slide.

Prophecy

In the summer of 2014, we the 8th grade class of 2002 decided it was time to have a party! The idea began with Alissa Ehrichs, a famous photographer, who was in California where she now lives. At the time, she was taking pictures for a magazine. Dr. Alexis Kabler was with her, in case of an emergency. Afterwards Alexis and Alissa went to Delmonico's to eat supper. What do you know! Ellen Ahlers was there checking out the restaurant for her newspaper article. They went back to Alissa's large beach house which was made of glass. The three girls decided to watch TV. They were amazed when they saw a new show called, "Judge LaShelle Gray." They called her up and told her that she needed to come down and meet them. They decided they were going to have a girl's night out. But right after the "Judge LaShelle Gray" show, there was a story about the biggest NBA player. They were very surprised when they saw that it was their old school mate, Aaron Harms, who was playing for the L.A. Clippers. It was now off-season and Aaron said that he was going to Florida in his stretched Cadillac Escalade, to meet up with his old buddy, Matthew Kurz, who was a NASA engineer. Matthew and Aaron then flew from Matthew's house to Alissa's large beach house in California. The six of them started to party at Alissa's house when they all decided that they needed to have a class reunion. So they called up their last school mate, Ross Viets. He was in New York at Carnegie Hall, singing. They gave him a call and he said that he would be down right away, in his very large touring bus. As he was driving along, he saw a hitch hiker. He stopped to ask if she needed a ride and he realized that it was his Jr. High teacher, Mrs. MacLean. He told her what was going on, and invited her to go with him. They arrived in California on Friday night at 11:59 p.m. The next morning Alissa told the girls that she was dying to go shopping. So the ladies went shopping while the men went out and spent their time at a football game. Everybody got back to the beach house and decided that they were going to spend their reunion in Cancun, Mexico. They were going to leave in two days, that gave them enough time to get ready. Ellen went to go get the food because she was the food critic and knew what food tasted best. When the day arrived, they got in Alissa's yacht (that Matthew had designed) and headed for Mexico. On the way, they stopped for fuel. They then gave their money to Mrs. MacLean to go and pay. It was just part of their plan. But the good thing was, Ellen put $700 in Mrs. MacLean's bag and threw it on the dock while she was inside paying. Then they drove off without her. They spent four weeks in Cancun and had the time of their lives. On the way back they had to stop for gas. And what do you know! Mrs. MacLean was still at that same gas station, waiting for them to come back to get her. Of course they picked her up and took her back home with them. While they were on their way home, the seven classmates decided that they needed to take their teacher to a mental hospital. But first they made sure that the hospital would agree to take very good care of her. From there, everyone went back to their separate ways: Aaron to his house; Ross on tour; Matthew to his hidden cave to build a new submarine/yacht; Ellen to her mansion in Colorado; LaShelle to her show; Alexis to her home; and Alissa to her beach house.
