

Dedication

This year, our yearbook is dedicated to
Mrs. Edna Simon.

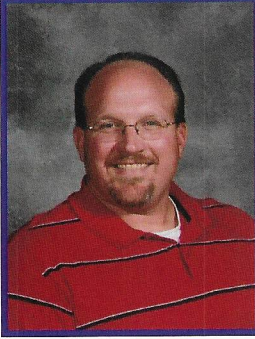

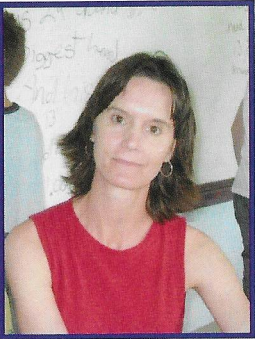

Edna is always there for everyone. She makes really good food, too. We can always count on her to have a friendly smile waiting for us in the cafeteria. Edna's smile, food and sweet personality helped make our dedication decision a whole lot easier. Thank you, Edna!

2009 Eighth Grade Class Prophecy

When the Lutheran School Association class of 2009 departed the hallowed halls of our school some twenty years ago there seemed to emanate from the walls a collective sigh of relief. Yet now, with a couple of decades passing by and those years strained through the filter of time, I as their pastor can look back fondly upon those years. But, oh what they have become... Allyson Bahrenburg, having set her athletic career aside, has entered the fashion world. She has designed a new line of boots for all occasions. So whether you are attending a 4H fair or a formal ball, chasing cattle or a graduation, Ally has your boots. Morgan Berendzen remains in Cole Camp. Well, near it anyway. Morgan has developed her family's farm into a major cattle operation which she started from her favorite bovine "Fireball". Morgan enjoys this very much but it isn't much of a money maker since she won't allow any of the animals to go to market. Michael Brockman, ironically, has become the largest Case/IH Dealer in the state of Missouri, right in little old Mora. He still farms a little on the side because he loves to show off that International Harvester red! Jacob Cordes has really done well for himself. After a prolonged series of unfortunate events, Jake has opened the Midwest's premiere inpatient accidental injury recover program. At the Cordes Recovery And Safety Habitation, C.R.A.S.H. for short, the therapy focuses on memorizing entire movie scripts and comedic routines in order to take the patient's mind off of their problems and therefore speed recovery. Codi Eckhoff has long since officially changed his name and has opened a hunting guide service in the hinterlands of the Great White North. He markets his business under the slogan "Don't just hunt the moose, hunt with THE MOOSE!". Grace Gilroy has become a world renowned clothing designer. She is known for her use of bold colors and polka dots. Most notably, she is known for being the designer of neon green and orange polka dotted uniforms for an internationally famous women's basketball team. Now, if you are in need of a public speaker, Josie Harms is your girl. Following her years at the LSA, Josie found out how much she loved being up in front of a crowd, began talking and hasn't stopped yet. Having found her voice, she has parlayed her passion into one of the hottest motivational speaking tickets around. Mason Harms is still in the world of athletics. After a short stint in the WNBA she founded and plays point guard for the CC World Strutters, a show team fashioned after the world famous Harlem Globetrotters. Zachary Heimsoth, having become an enormous Iowa Hawkeye fan, has opened a string of fan apparel and souvenir shops across the entire Tall Corn State. My daughter, Emily Kollbaum, completed her degree in Veterinary Science at Iowa State University. Since then she has opened the world's largest animal sanctuary rescuing animals from all over the world...and they all live in her house! Nathaniel Lutz has become an architect of some notoriety. Interestingly, he has gained his fame by obtaining a patented design for a line of housing developments for people of short stature. Sean Murphy, having completed his PhD in electro physical particle analysis, decided to pursue his true passion. Sean has become a wide receiver for the St. Louis Rams of the National Football League finally putting to rest the old wives tale that rugby players are tougher than football players. Emily Pritzel has become a world traveler and remains a pro basketball player. As you might have guessed, she is playing center for the CC Strutters and seeing the world. BMX Ben Schlesselman has made his fame riding his bicycle in the X-Games challenges around the nation. This is quite amazing given the fact that he has spent much of the past 20 years in and out of the Cordes Recovery And Safety Habitation (C.R.A.S.H.) Finally, Michael Wilshusen, has taken the family business and made it into very unique endeavor. Mike has made history by modifying his cattle with the genetic codes from the Fragaria ananassa and Theobroma cacao thus creating strawberry and chocolate milk right from the cow. Well, that about wraps up the update on these great LSA alum. I hope you have enjoyed the musings of this old pastor...I wonder what the next 20 years will bring?
